A one-man show for Phil Nesbitt, Carmel artist, opens at Gump's Gallery in San Francisco, February 6. It is a composite show, comprising examples of Nesbitt's work over a period of years and from a number of locales: caricatures and native scenes from Japan, Tahiti and the South Seas, and the West Indies. This is Nesbitt's third show at Gump's. He had a one-man show at the Carmel Art Association Galleries last year, and has exhibited at the Stendahl Galleries in Los Angeles, in Chicago and New York, in France and in London, where he had a one-man show at the Leicester Gallery.

His show follows Abel Warshawsky's at Gump's and will run for a month.

Mrs. Pearson Lends Authentic Letter From "Meg" to Pine Cone to Celebrate Children's "Little Women" Production

Published for the first time — in honor of tomorrow's production of "Little Women" in Sunset Auditorium — is a true collector's item, a letter written by Annie Alcott, the "Meg" of the story and sister of the author, Louisa May Alcott. Loaned to the Pine Cone by Mrs. F. B. Pearson, house guest of Mrs. John Hewitt of Carmel, it was written to the young relatives of a friend in 1871. It answers several questions which young people have asked as they read Miss Alcott's book, and will be of interest to many because of its revealing, quiet sincerity.

Concord, N. H.
January 20, 1871.

Dear Julia and Alice:

From your note to Miss Alcott, I infer that you are not aware that she is at present in Italy, having gone abroad in April last, with the intention of remaining a year, or more, trying to get well.

But knowing how pleased she would be with your friendly little letter, I think, perhaps, that a word from "Sister Meg" will be better than having it unanswered, and much better than that any "Little Women" should feel that Jo was unkind or ungrateful.

Of course, you know, that neither "Meg" nor "Jo" are young and jolly girls now, but sober old women, nearly forty years of age, full of cares and troubles, like other people; and that although nearly every event in the story is true, that, of course, things did not happen exactly as they are there set down.

You ask if Amy is not May Alcott; and I can truly say she is very self, and she is the only one of the "Little Women" who would, I think, realize your ideal drawn from the story.

She is, indeed, "Lary Amy", a fair and noble woman full of graces and accomplishments, and, what is better far, a pure and generous heart.

Jo, Beth, and Amy are all drawn from life, and are entirely truthful pictures of three dear sisters, who played and worked, loved and sorrowed with me, so many years ago. Dear Beth (or Louise, as we called her) died after long suffering twelve years ago. She was a sweet and gentle creature, and her death was so great a sorrow to poor "Jo", that she has never been quite happy, since her "conscience" was laid away under the pines of "Sleepy Hollow".

"Meg" was never the pretty, vain maiden, who flirted and made herself so charming. But "Jo" always admired poor "Annie", and when she came to put her into the story, she beautified her to suit the occasion, saying: "Dear me, girls, we must have one beauty in the book!" And so Meg, with her big mouth and homely nose, shines forth quite a darling, and no doubt all the "Little Women" who read 900 Sign Up For John; Council To Meet On Wed.

As signers of the We Want John petitions reached the nine hundred mark, rumor began to circulate around town yesterday that Robert Grey, contender for the cancelled John Roscelli garbage contract, had started a petition of his own, which states that the signers want Robert, because Roscelli leaves the lids off garbage cans.

Whether or not such a petition is circulating the Pine Cone was unable to discover. Mr. Grey refused to make any statement other than that the Pine Cone is "crucifying" him. "Just because you have a little paper there, you think you can go lambasting people—"

We are deeply hurt. We never lambaste anybody. The town's too small for that. We should be apt to run into the lambastee on our way to the post office, and then consider the embarrassment! For all we know Mr. Grey is a stout fella and a swell guy. He sounds perfectly all right to us over the telephone. But we still prefer to have John Roscelli collect our garbage because he is an old hand at it, knows his business, and has always been satisfactory in his dealings with us, and we have a right to say so. However, we hope that in the heat of battle for the defense of John, people have not aimed their attacks or vituperations at Grey. It was the city council that cancelled John's contract, not Mr. Grey, who is simply a man asking for a job that is open. It is the city council that the citizens will have

Public Meeting On Mission Ranch Re-zoning Tuesday

At the request of the County Planning Commission, W. T. Mahar is calling a meeting of Carmel Incorporated, and Corum Jackson is inviting interested Carmel citizens to a public meeting Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock at the home of General Joseph Stilwell on Inspiration Avenue.

Purpose of the joint meeting is to discover the community reaction to a request made last week by Ashton Stanley that the Mission Ranch be rezoned so that he may enlarge and remodel the restaurant, night club, and bar.

Stanley, manager of Del Monte Lodge, is planning to lease the Mission Ranch property from the owner, Bert Dienelt, and to convert the property into a de luxe resort and night club that will attract the tourist trade.

Requests by Bert Dienelt, present operator, to enlarge and remodel the club have been denied

KITE FESTIVAL

Saturday, April 6, has been set for the Annual Carmel Kite Festival if it doesn't rain. Ernest Calley, shop instructor at Sunset, and presiding genie of the event, again offers the use of the shop facilities to kite makers, and will also furnish sticks and advice. All that is needed is string, paste and paper, patience, and enthusiasm. Adults as well as children may enter the contest.

Ernest Calley Gets State Control For Cutting Of Monterey Co. Redwoods

Through the efforts of Ernest Calley, Sunset School shop instructor, the cutting of Monterey County redwoods will be placed under state regulation.

Senate Bills 637 and 560, passed at the last legislature, provide for the control of commercial cutting, so that the forests may be perpetuated and the timber supply will not become exhausted. A committee of timber owners from each of four districts are to draw up a code of forestry practices and rules to meet with the approval of the State Forestry Board. The four districts over which control is to be set are made up of one redwood district, two pine and one pine and fir.

Calley, an ardent forest conservationist, in studying over the bills found that Monterey County redwoods had not been included in the redwood district that is to come under state supervision.

He addressed the following letter to Warren T. Hannum, Director of Natural Resources:

"I am very glad that something is being done to save the forests, climate and water. I find it difficult to believe that timber owners and cutters can formulate forestry practices that will not lessen our effective forests. I presume the check of the Forestry Board is expected to hold it."

"I note that in the redwood district Monterey County is not included. Of course the quantity in this County is not large, but it is

Who Owns Pon's House Dispute Reaches Court

The six months' old dispute on the question of who owns Pon Chung's house has finally reached justice court and will be heard before Judge Ray Baugh in Monterey.

Friday Pon Chung was served with a summons to appear in Judge Baugh's court, to answer to a complaint sworn out by Alf A. Nilssen, stating in effect that Pon Chung refuses to pay rent for or to vacate the house he is occupying on San Carlos near Seventh Street, and demanding that Pon vacate the premises and pay back rental for the sum not to exceed $300.

Pon Chung, through his attorney, John Catlin, filed an answer denying that Alf Nilssen is the owner of the house, but on the contrary, he, Pon Chung is the owner thereof. Also, that he was willing to move the house off Nilssen's land but "could not do so because of threats of violence upon his person by the plaintiff (Nilssen) and with out himself breaching the peace and tearing down a high board fence erected by the plaintiff for the purpose of preventing such removal."

He states that he was at all times ready to pay rent for the land the house occupied.

And as a cross complaint Pon alleges: "that the plaintiff (Nilssen) or his agents entered and invaded the home of the defendant (Pon) and there committed depredations to his great damage; that the plaintiff planted trees and shrubs and made excavations at the defendant's (Pon's) front entrance, blocking his only egress to the street; that plaintiff has com-

Mother Fletcher's Contribution Brings F. D. Fund Up To $195

"This is for my fire laddies," said Mother Fletcher (Mrs. Etta C. Fletcher). She is 82 years old and yesterday she climbed the stairs to City Clerk Peter Mawdsley's office to contribute a dollar to the fund that Fire Commissioner Frank Hefling is raising to buy a radio-phonograph for the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department.

Mother Fletcher is an ardent prohibitionist, regarding with disfavor not only the drinking of spirituous liquors, but the smoking of tobacco as well. On accounts of Presidential dinners at which wines have been served, Mother Fletcher's invariable comment is that she can't see why the White House should be turned into a saloon. She is loved throughout the community by everybody who knows her, including the people who drink spirituous liquors and smoke tobacco.

Her contribution brings the radio-phonograph fund up to $195.

Army Chaplain Tells Missionary Society of Bishop Tsu's "Parish"

Thirteen hundred miles of territory up and down the Burma Road formed the "parish" of Bishop Tsu, who spoke at a service in All Saints' Church in 1944 (only a bishop doesn't have a parish), in his work and supervision of services of the Episcopal Church in Yunnan province in south China, said Chaplain Mert M. Lampson, speaking to the Carmel Missionary Society on Tuesday afternoon. In his assignment to Kunming with the U. S. Army over a period of more than a year, Chaplain Lampson met and became a firm friend of the Chinese bishop who visited Carmel during his last trip to the United States.

Yunnan and Kweichow provinces were the area of the chaplain's activities, and he had the opportunity to visit many missions and observe the work of the Episcopal church, which has charge of Christianizing that part of China. U. S. soldiers contributed $6000 in gold and $2,000,000 Chinese to mission work during the period of Chaplain Lampson's assignment, and many attended the mission services and Bishop Tsu's church. Collecting money for missions from service men is banned by the army, but voluntary gifts not during service were permitted. Incidentally, the exchange rate varied during the period, ranging from 300 to one up to 3000 to one; so the three million, Chinese money, was less than one might suppose.

It was, said the chaplain, a very interesting experience in interracial and interdenominational relations. The church throughout the region is steadily becoming indigenous, supported very largely by the Chinese themselves, who are being trained consistently by Episcopalian leaders to take over entirely the supervision of Christian activities. The mission conducts training classes for adults and for young people of high school and college age. Photographs of the various groups and activities were shown during the talk.

Chaplain and Mrs. Lampson displayed many examples of Chinese work, from a gorgeous red silk bed spread elaborately embroidered in gay colors, fine textiles and gold embroidery, to craft products of the marble of Yunnan and dolls and small animals of intriguing form. They had brought color films of the people and the landscape, but a slight accident to the projector prevented showing them, to everyone's disappointment.

At the short business meeting the society voted to continue monthly contributions to the colored church, Hayes Chapel in Monterey, through the Monterey Peninsula Council of Church Women. During the fall the contributions had gone to the religious education on released time in Monterey and Pacific Grove. Mrs. John W. Dickinson, missionary chairman for All Saints' and co-chairman of the society, conducted the meeting.

Don Berry Denied Apprenticeship In Sheet Metal Union

to take advantage of the GI Bill of Rights which offers On The Job (OTJ) training to all servicemen irrespective of age, Berry accepted Wilder's offer and went to work immediately after his December discharge.

According to Wilder, Berry, in conformance with government policy that trainees must be registered with their unions to work in closed shops, gave notice straightway to the A F of L Building and Construction Council's Business Agent, Lloyd Long, of Monterey, who advised that he join the Laborers' Union.

Back at work several days later, Berry was spotted by Alsop, #304's president, told that he could not use mechanic's tools as a laborer, and to stop work. He was also told that he could not be registered as an apprentice because of the age clause, although Long had already informed him that he might register at the next meeting of the local union.

Wilder charges that Alsop is trying to pull a Petrillo and corner the sheet-metal workers, putting false barriers between the returned servicemen and his job. He states that during the war his requisitions to Alsop for sheet metal men were unheeded, and that at the present time he can use three more men. If journeymen (skilled workers) are not available, why can't he take an apprentice, like Berry, and train him, he wants to know?

Alsop has his own—and possibly his union's—ideas on the subject. At any rate, the returned-veteran angle does not impress him. "We can't take too many apprentices," he protested when questioned. "The veterans all come back wanting favors. We went without as much as they did. What they all want is the difference in wage between . . . (the apprentice wage and the extra $90 per month offered by the Bill of Rights?)" Mr. Alsop preferred not to say.

All A F of L unions except the Painters', Plasterers', Sheet Metal Workers' Union, now have raised age limits or granted seniority to applying veterans. Joseph Bell, Veterans' Administrator in the U. S. Government Employment Office in Monterey, states that the administration is attempting to persuade all unions to follow the government's lead in granting training to veterans of all ages.

Lloyd Long, Trade Council's Business Agent, supports Alsop's stand that the trade cannot accommodate all returning veterans wishing to enter apprenticeships. In the first place, he says, there are not enough journeymen to supervise them properly, and in the second, the building trades do not offer stable employment for a great number. However, Long says that Alsop, together with the members of the local union, have the authority to grant a temporary work permit in such cases as Berry's, until action can be taken by the International Union.

Queried as to this, Alsop declared that neither he nor the local council may overstep the regulations of the International, which may only be changed by a letter written by the local, requesting the change. "I had thought of doing this," stated Alsop, "until this mess was stirred up. Now my hair's sort of up!" However, he added, anyone in the union may propose such a letter.

Meanwhile, charges are being met with counter-charges. Alsop says that he sent Wilder a journeyman whom the latter refused. Wilder says that is an Alsop fable and that Alsop has, in the past, seen fit to take on apprentices up to thirty-five years of age, keeping a full crew working in his Salinas shop when labor was unobtainable elsewhere.

In the interim, Don Berry goes on working.

Bixler Pleased With Carmel's Showing In V Clothing Drive

The last week of the clothing drive has been the best yet, Postmaster Ernest Bixler stressed in complimenting Carmel residents for their cooperation. Women at the clothing tent on Sixth street were kept busy every day, and Lions Club members handled packing of the contributions every night at Walt Pilot's Warehouse to have the job finished in time for shipment to Oakland Saturday.

Additional boxes have been provided by the Army to accommodate the great amount of clothing received here. It will be sent by special freight car from Monterey and sorted out for overseas shipment in Oakland. Although contributions were in the thousands, no piece-by-piece record was maintained. The final total will be in terms of poundage, Mr. Bixler said.

Mrs. Howard Elton Clark, organizer of the women at the clothing tent, reported three more assistants in addition to those listed last week, Mrs. Joseph Horn, Mrs. J. O. Handley, and Mrs. E. M. Vandenberg.

Denny-Watrous Present Carmen In Santa Cruz

Carmen will be given by the San Carlo Opera Company in the auditorium, Santa Cruz, on next Sunday evening, Feb. 3, as arranged by the Denny-Watrous Management. The curtain is eight o'clock.

The cast includes Coe Glade in the title role, Sydney Rayner as Don Jose, Mostyn Thomas as Escamillo and Virginia Blair as Micaela. Of Coe Glade, for ten years leading contralto of the Chicago Opera Company, the New York Times declared her Carmen "One of the most fascinating impersonations seen on the New York stage in many years," while Marjorie Fisher said in the San Francisco News two weeks ago, "Carmens come and Carmens go . . . but if there is a better one than Coe Glade I have yet to see her."

Sydney Rayner, formerly of the Metropolitan Opera of the Chicago, and widely experienced with European Opera Companies, is famous for his Don Jose, having made his debut in the role at the Met. Mostyn Thomas, Welsh baritone, who made his operatic debut at Covent Garden, London, is one of the San Carlo Company's best singers.

A ballet of fourteen dancers accompanies the opera. Victor Truc, for eleven years an assistant conductor at the Metropolitan, and who conducted for the Chicago Opera last season, conducts the orchestra.

Baller Includes Moussorgsky In Carmel Program

The distinguished pianist, Adolf Baller, who will appear for the Carmel Music Society at Sunset auditorium on Friday evening, Feb. 8, is perhaps one of the most travelled men in the world. During the war years he has played before audiences of hundreds of thousands of concert-goers, when he added to his regular appearances with Yehudi Menuhin throughout the United States and South America, the countless performances before the men and women in the armed services of the 'Allied Nations, in the South Pacific as well as the European theatres of war. Though he is best known through his association with the world-famous violinist, he had, prior to coming to America in 1938, an established reputation in the metropolitan cities of the Old World, not only as a performer of virtuosity, but also as a composer of distinction.

On his program here he will feature masterpieces of Bach, Beethoven and Brahms, three of his own compositions, and the monumental Pictures at an Exhibition of Moussorgsky, the latter work being musical impressions of a collection of ten water colors. This composition should be of special interest to Carmel audiences, which include so many gifted painters, as well as those devoted to the plastic arts. As a record of a musician's reaction to the visual experience of this kind, it is unique in the annals of musical literature.

World Brotherhood Forum At Sunset On February 19

A public forum at Sunset School, Feb. 19, will discuss the subject, World Brotherhood Begins at Home, in recognition of World Brotherhood Week, February 17 to 24. Preceding the forum will be a dinner in Monterey for leaders of civic organizations.

Plans were outlined during the meeting last Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Helen Clark Cranston. Attending were the Rev. J. A. Crawford, Mrs. E. W. L. Franklin, Dr. and Mrs. Blanchard Steeves, Capt. Clifford Hooper, Eben Whittlesey, Dr. Signe Hagelthorn, Mrs. Ednae McKinley, Mrs. Loren Smith, C. C. Cope, Harry Sortais, and John Westover.

The committee on arrangements includes Mrs. Cranston, chairman, Father Michael D. O'Connell, Capt. Hooper, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Franklin, Dr. Hagelthorn, and Messrs. Westover, Sortais and Cope.

SPORTING NOTES...

By FRANCIS SHEA

Carmel cagers traveled over to King City last Friday night and succeeded in breaking a couple of wild Mustang quintets of the bean capital. Padre heavys romped to a 27-16 victory, while the Babes chalked up a 16-14 win.

The heavyweight contest was a one-sided affair, the game Mustangs being obviously out-classed. Coach Ted Fehring put plenty of Carmel reserves in, who got good practice but scored a total of 0 points. The Padres led 5-4 at the first quarter, 13-6 at the half, and 20-11 by the end of the third stanza, and the score could feasibly have been much higher.

Maybe it was over-confidence that made the Carmelites' free shots so poor, but regardless of the cause, those foul shots were nothing short of terrible. This factor has always been a bug-bear with the Padres, but, since they showed marked improvement in their engagement with Pacific Grove, it was thought that possibly they had inaccurate foul shooting licked. But, alas, 3 baskets out of 11 tries leaves much to be desired. Clayton Neill's average was plenty good, 2 out of 3, but what's wrong with the rest of the team?

Starters for Carmel were Martin Irwin 10, Clayton Neill 6, Owen Greenan 5, Tom Hefling 4, and Art Templeman 2. Reserves: Don Adams, Dick Templeman, Max Hodges, Lew McCreery, Ralph Westover and Bill Gargiulo.

The lightweight game was close and exciting. The Padre Babes led 8-5 at the half and 16-12 at the third quarter, but they failed to tally a single point throughout the final quarter. Luckily for the Carmelites, their adversaries were able to score only one basket during the final stanza, and they retained a 2 point lead until the whistle sounded to end the contest. This was the Babes' first League victory.

Carmel starters were Dick Larkey 6, Bill Sapsis 3, Paul Warner Lee Winslow, and Murray Wight. Reserves seeing action were Dick Gargiulo 7, Curtis Gorham, Bob Rissel and Mike Monahan.

The All-American Red Heads, World's Champion Girls' Basketball Club, will play at the Carmel High School gym Saturday, February 9, at 7:00 p. m. Their opponents will be Carmel's men's faculty team. The Carmel Padres will clash with Fresno High that same evening.

The Red Heads are the only girls' basketball squad ever to be featured in Life and Pic, and to tour in the Philippines and the Orient, where, incidentally, they defeated eighteen men's teams. They are coached by the famous Ole Olson of "Olson's Terrible Swedes."

The admission will be 50 cents for students and $1.00 for adults, the receipts to be used to purchase curtains for the High School cafeteria stage.

Officials Fail To Discover Cause Of Fire Here Sunday

Mystery surrounds origin of the fire which on Sunday night destroyed the partially completed home of Gardner A. Dailey at Carpenter and Ocean Avenue. Fire Commissioner Frank Hefling said that police and fire department investigators have been unable to place the blame. Nothing so far discovered indicates arson, and the complete absence of wiring or gas rules out the utilities as a possible cause. Only the frame of the house had been completed, as the plastering had not been started.

The fire was reported by a person leaving the theater shortly after 7:30 p. m.

Frank Berkey

Funeral services for Frank Berkey, 44, brother of Charles Berkey, manager of the Bank of Carmel, were held last week in New York. Mr. Berkey died January 22 in the Cumberland Hospital there, victim of a heart condition which had forced him into a life of comparative inactivity for many years.

Born in Chicago, he lived in Carmel for ten years, leaving about fifteen years ago. While here he was a member of the fire department. Throughout his life, Mr. Berkey had to watch his health carefully and confined his work to general office jobs. For the past two years he had been confined to the hospital. He remained unmarried.

Surviving are his brothers, Charles of Carmel and Gerald K. Berkey of Paris.

this week have been Chaplain Roy Davis, Ivan Kelsey, Wes Cato, and Lt. Virgil Sullivan, a newcomer but "one of the best fly fishermen hereabouts", according to the local experts.

Rain is badly needed to make fishing good at the Carmel River mouth. The water is too low, too clear, and the bar closes daily. As it is opened by the artichoke growers, a few fish come through, but the old hands are fishing up the river, where Cliff LaNeve got his this week. At the bar it was kids' day Saturday and Sunday. Mike Dormody, 14, son of Dr. Horace Dormody, landed a nine and a half pounder out in the surf Sunday, and Saturday, Mike Ricketts, 10, pulled in a seven-pounder.

Mrs. Pearson Lends Authentic Letter From "Meg" To Pine Cone

of her, admire her, just as loving old Jo does, and think her quite splendid.

But for all that, she is nothing but homely "Annie", one of the busy, useful, but uninteresting ones. And as for dear old Jo herself, she was just the romping, naughty, topsy-turvy tom-boy that all your little girls have learned to love, and even now, when care and sickness have made her early old, she is, at heart, the same loving, generous girl.

In "Little Women" she has given a very truthful account of her hopes, and mistakes, her literary struggles and success, and she is now enjoying her well earned honors — and regaining her health in travel with her sister Amy.

They are spending the winter in Rome, in a delightful circle of artists, receiving attentions and honors, that make proud the heart of the sister left behind. Amy is in the studio of Crownenshield, the painter, working hard to perfect herself in her chosen art, while Jo is resting and getting strength and courage for her promised "Little Men" — of which, I imagine, Meg's boys, Freddie and Johnnie, are to be the heroes.

You inquire about "Laurie", and I know you hope to hear that this dear, delightful boy still lives, and perhaps has a true and interesting history. How sorry I am to say, that there really is no Laurie, and that the character was drawn partly from imagination, and partly from a variety of nice boys, whom she has rolled into one, and christened Laurie.

I must confess, however, that there was once a beautiful Polish boy, whom she met abroad, and where beauty, musical talent, and wheedlesome way just suggested to her the idea of putting him into a book; she has, therefore, put upon him the love-making of various adorners of her youthful days.

Dear little friends, if I have told you all you wish to know, and shown you that you need have no fear of being thought "intrusive", perhaps someday you will honor Meg herself with a letter. Be assured, she will be glad to hear from any of the "Little Women".

"I will feel my flock, and I will cause them to lie down, saith the Lord God. I will seek that which was lost, and bring again that which was driven away, and will bind up that which was broken, and will strengthen that which was sick" (Ezekiel 34:15, 16). This is the Golden Text for the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon for February 3rd, on the subject "Love".

Included in the sermon are these citations:

Psalms 29:11: "The Lord will give strength unto his people; the Lord will bless his people with peace."

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The poor suffering heart needs its rightful nutriment, such as peace, patience in tribulation, and priceless sense of the dear Father's loving-kindness" (p. 365).

Pine Cone:

As the owner of a home in Carmel Woods who has been faithfully served during various periods by John Roscelli and as an owner who expects to make her permanent residence in Carmel, I am asking that my name be added to the list of those who would like to see Roscelli keep his contract for garbage service.

Yours very truly,
Lesley Dunning Somers
(Mrs. L. D. Somers)

Editor of the Pine Cone,

The John Roscelli debate on the subject of his garbage contract has even me stirred up a little. When a man serves his clientele faithfully, the cancellation of his contract should not be allowed. In the case of John Roscelli, who has become a Carmel institution, it is just that a protest should be made. He has served me for many years as he has served so many others. Even if we have to close our eyes once in a while to carelessness — if he forgets to close the can or spills some of the contents in his hurry — this is part of the neighborliness of Carmel, and we ourselves also expect to be forgiven for our shortcomings. It is not justice to take up such small matters as an excuse to cancel his contract. And there is no guaran-able for tomorrow's "Little Women", with the curtain rising promptly at 2:15 p.m. Third of a series of productions specially arranged for young people of the peninsula. The cast are members of the Palo Alto Children's Theater group, invited for the occasion.

tee that we shall find perfection in anyone else.

Please print this in order that my small voice may be raised on behalf of Joe Roscelli.

Sincerely yours,
Ida Hanke.

Raymond Hodges Gives Talk On Fuchsia Culture

By JEANIE M. KLENKE

At its first meeting of the New Year, last week, in All Saints' Parish House, the Monterey Peninsula Branch of the National Fuchsia Society elected officers for the ensuing year. Mrs. Lawrence Lyon by popular acclaim graciously accepted re-election as president. Mr. Douglas MacGregor, vice president, Mrs. Frank Timmins, secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Fay Roberts, publicity for Monterey and Pacific Grove, Mrs. Jeanie M. Klenke, publicity for Carmel.

The attendance was good with several new comers enrolled. Mr. Raymond Hodges gave an illuminating talk on the importance of Fuchsia culture in our gardens here on the Peninsula, stating the climate and soil, and even the fog in this vicinity produce healthy growth and a wealth of perfect blossoms, a natural habitat for Fuchsias.

Not only is the Monterey Peninsula noted as the greatest fishing port anywhere, but it can become the greatest Fuchsia center anywhere. In the Old World, humanity is so beset with shortages of most commodities, great effort is required to secure even the necessities of living, but here, even with present restrictions, we can work in and improve our gardens, a great panacea for the general let-down of war time activities.

Proving by color photography how beautifully fuchsias grow in our midst, Mr. Hodges illustrated his talk with a collection of new slides made the past year from views in his picturesque gardens. Not only fuchsias, but tuberous begonias, hydrangeas, cineraria and numerous other flowering shrubs, these pictures show how agreeably these various flowers grow happily in the same soil and climatic conditions. At their lovely Pacific Grove home, Mr. and Mrs. Hodges together have worked out most attractive garden arrangements, and a visit there will surely inspire anyone having even a small garden to make a start with a fuchsia collection.

He named at least a dozen new varieties of the jewel-like blossoms produced in the past year by Mr. and Mrs. Hazzard, pioneers of fuchsia culture in Pacific Grove, and of other hybridizers in the San Francisco Bay Region.

BUCKNERS BUILD AT P. B.

Robert Buckner, a producer at Warner Brothers movie studios, and his wife have purchased a lot at Pebble Beach and are now building a home there. Mrs. Buckner and Mrs. Victor Francen recently came up to the Peninsula for a brief stay at Del Monte Lodge.

U. S. O. NOTES...

By JIM COOKE

The Carmel USO public open house, Sunday, February 3, from 3:00 p.m. until 6:00 p.m., to celebrate the Fifth Anniversary of its founding, promises to be one of the most colorful that has been held. The USO has been redecorated, and the Staff and volunteers would be happy to have the public drop in and see how the money has been spent for the comfort of the service men and women who visit Carmel.

This celebration is laying particular emphasis on saluting the Carmel USO volunteers without whom USO would never have been possible. Miss Flora Hartwell, who for a long, long time has been arranging the flowers at the service club house, will be in charge of the decorations.

To you who might be using the USO Travelers Aid service, we might say that the office for this area is located at 442 Washington Street in Monterey, and from now on it will close daily at 6:00 p.m. On Saturdays it will be open in the evening. On Sundays it will be open from 1:30 p.m. until 5:00 p.m.

Last Saturday night the fifth performance of the Carmel USO Carousal was held, celebrating the return of the thirty men present, who are going back into civilian life. Most of them have been at the USO daily from a year up to two and a half years, and it will not be easy to see them go.

Diana Ayres was in charge of the evening, which opened with song slide singing. Then Gordon Ayres, Master of Ceremonies, took over and with his usual wit introduced the popular Bill Horowitz from Fort Ord, who gave his jazz version of "Trees", followed by several encores that helped Gordon to get the audience in the right frame of mind for a whole evening of fun. At this moment Ayres, (soon to be a civilian himself) gave his version of four types of G.I.s to be found at the Carmel USO on the dance floor: the Harper's Ferry, Mo., type, the red cheeked man, fresh out of basic training, the fellow from New York and the Hollywood type.

Sgt. Walter Legawiec followed with his lovely Carmel composed, "By Night", "A Portrait", and "Frolic At The Carmel USO," and as an encore, with his friend Sgt. Winston McQuiddy at the piano, gave his impression of "Star Dust", as Dubussy would have written it. At this moment Ayres spotted Stan Greenspan in the audience, and by popular demand, Stan took the stage. This fellow thinks up funny lines faster than he can say them. He tells you what happens to a soldier caught on Ocean Avenue with his hat in his hand. Close your eyes when Stan has the stage, and he brings your favorite Radio stars right before you. The show ended with Gordon Ayres, assisted by Diana, showing what happens when a soldier prepares for civilian life.

Among the many things done for the Carmel USO at Christmas time was the augmenting of the Magazine table. A survey was conducted to discover what the service men liked to read. Of the list Mrs. Anna Brown Holt of Scenic Drive, and others subscribed to a number of magazines. If anyone wishes to add his pet magazine to this list, get in touch with me.

Jessie Joan Bever Receives Husband's Posthumous Awards

Mrs. Jessie Joan Bever, wife of the late First Lieutenant Earl Ray Bever, Jr., received the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal with one Silver Oak Leaf Cluster, awarded posthumously to her husband during recent ceremonies at the Officers' Club, Fort Ord. Lt. Col. W. W. Vickery, deputy executive officer of post headquarters, made the awards. The Distinguished Flying Cross was presented "for heroism and extraordinary achievement on 6 September, 1944. Lt. Bever, while on a bombing mission over enemy territory, was forced by adverse weather conditions to make a bombing run at extremely low altitude, thus subjecting his aircraft to intense enemy anti-aircraft fire. Although his plane was severely damaged during the attack, Lt. Bever, displaying superior aerial proficiency, released his bombs with devastating results upon the target. Lt. Bever's determination in the face of innumerable odds, his courage and superior aerial proficiency and skill contributed much toward the success of the mission and reflected the greatest credit upon himself and the Army Air Forces."

Meritorious achievement while participating in the air war over Europe was basis for the awarding of the Air Medal and Oak Leaf Cluster. The Lieutenant had completed fifty-two missions and reportedly met his death while flying over Brest on September 6, 1944. He was at Fort Ord with Thirty-Second Infantry before joining the AAF, and later he helped form the 410th Bombardment Group at Mather Field. While at Mather he was married to the former Jessie Joan Brown, daughter of Mrs. Helene Brown. The ceremony was in Sacramento, July 3, 1943.

$30,000,000 cash ... on the line

In 1946, your gas and electric company will spend thirty million dollars "on the line"—the power line, the gas line and the job line . . . for improvements and new construction.

That is our projected construction budget in this new year of 1946 for plant and line improvements—better to serve Northern California.

This thirty million dollars is money spent for the future growth of this area. And we in Northern California must look ahead and be prepared. This is a time to get ready for the growth of new businesses, small or large; for the expansion of local factories or of larger industries backed by outside capital. It is a time to create jobs for our increased population and the development of markets for the products of factory and farm.

The Pacific Gas and Electric Company is now running a series of colorful advertisements in leading national magazines to attract new business and new industries to Northern California. It is a campaign that aims at the live interest of Eastern industries in moving westward. Your gas and electric company will keep ahead of this growth through its multi-million dollar improvement program by providing an abundant supply of electric power and natural gas fuel at rates among the lowest in the nation.

In early India, people did not make many records about themselves. Although India was a great peninsula, it was cut off from the rest of the world by the sea and the ice covered Himalayas. There are two rivers in India. One is the Indus river, and the other is the Ganges river. In the valley of the Indus, lived a tribe of early hunters, with only primitive tools to work with. Some other people came and drove them out. These people made great towering cities, so India made a civilization of its own. —Bob Cecil.

"Children of Athens played" all sorts of games. The boys played with hoops, balls, tag, blind man bluff and other things. The girls had tea-sets and dolls made of clay or wax and painted with bits of clothes. They had dogs and swings for their possessions. When a boy was seven his father sent him to school. A pedagogue was a slave and it is his duty to look after the boy and if he is bad he was punished by the pedagogue. If the father had a deformed child its parents would put it in a basket and put it in a public spot for anyone to take. If no one wished to raise the child it was left to die. —Camilla Doe.

H. Nunn Discusses Business Of Living At C. S. Lecture Here

We are all engaged in the business of living, of expressing the goodness of God who is Love, the wisdom of God who is Mind, the beauty of God who is Soul, the stability of God who is divine Principle and Truth, Herschel P. Nunn, C. S. B., Portland, Oregon, said in a lecture on Christian Science, delivered here Tuesday evening.

Mr. Nunn is a member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

Developing his theme, he pointed out that no business could be conducted without intelligence. Many a man has found, through his study of Christian Science, satisfying success in business through acknowledging the one Mind, God, as the source of his intelligence. To know God as Mind is to find release from the limitations of the belief that brain is the fount of intelligence. This belief is the source of egotism, the source of the notion that we have a mind of our own and therefore can be proud of our accomplishment when we develop mental ability. What a wonderful relief it is for the Christian Scientist to realize that the one Mind, God, is his mind; that because of this fact he reflects the intelligence to make wise decisions, counsel unselfishly, act with assurance, plan and execute fearlessly! There is no need of, no possibility of, man's not having, doing, being whatever is right and good. In

Big Sur Lodge In Ruins; Fate Is Before Commission

The future of Big Sur Lodge, destroyed Tuesday by fire, will probably come up for discussion by the State Park Commission during its meeting today and Saturday in Los Angeles. It was reported from Sacramento that the state carried no insurance on the building valued at $20,000, and $10,000 worth of stores and provisions of the new concessionaire, William Raymond, also lacked insurance.

An explosion, apparently in the basement where a gas refrigerator and heater were operating, preceded the fire, discovered at 12:45 a. m. by Raymond. Twenty-five local residents organized by Edward Roeth, manager of Redwood Lodge, one mile north of Big Sur Lodge, formed a volunteer crew when Raymond was unable to get his call through to the state forestry division at Carmel Hill, but the entire structure was in flames when the volunteers arrived.

Carmel residents will have the opportunity Sunday to see the operation of their USO during the open house which is to commemorate the organization's fifth anniversary. our real being as divine Mind's idea we all are the reflection of and therefore express the whole of the activity of the law of God, good, and the whole of the power to enforce that law. In the consciousness of that fact is man's dominion realized.

The law of God becomes operative in human experience through the understanding of God, the presence of God, ruling out of human thought everything unlike itself.

The divine presence is the presence of omniscience, eternally unfolding Life, Mind, Love.

The presence of God is the presence of divine Love. Infinite, divine Love delights in man in His image, and likeness—as indicated when Jesus heard the benediction, "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased." Divine Love promotes man's welfare, bestowing peace, dominion, power, harmony, good—bestowing every glorified, radiant gift from the boundless resources and capacities of infinite Love.

The revelation of the one infinite, self-existent, all-constituting Spirit, God, establishes man and creation as the forever perfect representation of this divine cause, or Father-Mother. From the very nature of this perfect cause, its infinity, its omnipotence, its unvarying presence of good, that which represents it, reflects it, manifests it, namely, man and the universe, will express this infinite all-power and unvarying good. In our present experience we see this in one form of its expression as a successful business, a harmonious business, a good business.

Jerry Says . . .

by
LILLIAN LOCKE

Jerry says he is glad the war is over for several reasons. It was pretty tough on him due to the paper shortage, the need of red points to obtain meat, and the change of personnel in Carmel's shops. Carmel just isn't what it used to be, and Jerry should know, for he has lived here for eleven years and has seen them come and go, and eleven years is a long time—just ask any dog.

He says in the old prewar days no one had ever heard of a red point, and a little fox terrier dog could live the life of Riley and only use the sense every dog should have. In those olden, golden days Jerry went to the meat shops whenever he felt hungry, and he never had to wait long to be given a bone, with juicy bits of red meat clinging to it, all neatly wrapped in good prewar paper, which he took gratefully and started for home. Started for home, but when the longing for the delectable contents of the package became more than any dog could endure, he stopped wherever he was and opened it and lay down to eat it. This place was usually the middle of the road, and no horn-honking made him move.

Either Jerry has a charmed life or the horn-honkers recognized him as the dog tax collector's dog (that is what Jerry thinks) or else they were kind-hearted people, who would hate to run over a little dog and his bone. That was a long time ago.

But now what happens? His favorite shops are so crowded, and with strangers too, who step on a little dog and take up all of the meat salesmen's time, and what chance does he have in a situation like that? Also, most of the salesmen he used to see are gone, and if the ones still there do see him, and give him a bone (with no sales value) it has no paper around it at all! (Not even an old Pine Cone). So every dog he meets (lots of new ones in town now who do not know him to be the DTC's dog) challenge his right to the bone. It runs his blood pressure up each trip he makes.

Sometimes he finds it necessary to stop at the back door of the corner restaurant, but of course, he has to eat what is given him there, and that is no fun, either. Jerry has not yet lost faith in Carmel, and he hopes things will get better soon, for it must be hard on other dogs, too. Of course he has other duties. He demands credentials of each person who enters his master's home, and even when they are given, he is sometimes suspicious, for things in Carmel are just not what they used to be.

Serra School Notes . . .

On Wednesday, January 16th, each class of Junipero Serra School received a beautiful copy of the Bill of Rights at a ceremony held during a school assembly. Each room took part in the short program.

The 5th and 6th grades sang, "Raise High the Flag of Freedom". A talk, "Freedom's Plan," was given by Ann Marie Tanous. Then the 1st and 2nd grades sang, "We Love Our Flag." A poem, "America for Me," was recited in chorus by Carol Ann Smith, Ann Whitaker, Barbara Horne and Carolyn Frisbe. Jere Commings gave a talk on the Bill of Rights. After that the 3rd and 4th grades sang "America". A talk on Democracy was given by Joan Sanders.

Sister Superior said a few words to us and the program ended with the singing of the National Anthem.

The Funniset Thing I've Ever Seen

One day in the Spring of 1941, my aunt and my family were down on the beach. We had been walking for several minutes when a gust of wind suddenly caught the brim of my aunt's hat and blew it off. She and my mother, with dresses pulled up to their knees, running in high heeled shoes, were trying frantically to retrieve the floating hat. Everytime they were about to reach it, the surf would chase them back to dry sand.

After several unsuccessful attempts they frantically waved their hands and called in despair for my father. He, incidentally, was taking pictures of the scene. He was only interested in making a movie record of their ridiculous efforts.

Finally he relented, went into the surf and brought back a very wet and soppy hat to its grateful owner.

Days Before Yesterday

BY BETTY HASKELL

Some Saturday in April full of Spring wind and sunshine, the sky above Hatton Fields has been gay with kites every year since 1931. The first annual Kite Festival, held on February 21 of that year, was sponsored by the Rev. Willis G. White and supported by all of Carmel. Rev. White had sponsored similar events in San Diego and in Bakersfield years before, and to him Carmel owes its thanks for a tradition that has become legend on the Peninsula.

Weeks before the event, the kids are busy constructing their kites at the school shop and all over the back porch at home. Fathers are allowed to give a small amount of assistance, but kites bearing evidence of too much parental skill have been ruled out of the contest.

The beach is a good place for tentative trials a week before the contest, for after all you like to know if, miraculously enough, this bit of wood, paper, string and glue will actually soar above earth at all before you enter it in the "highest flying" division.

Other groups usually include prettiest, odd-est, best made. My sister had one shaped like a bird house one year, with a painted door and swallows pasted on. It flew, too. Mine was a fragile star shape that year, quite graceful and airy, that got tangled up in something and came ignominiously to earth.

One of the Pine Cone's typsetters remembers flying a huge box kite from the hill above the Presidio years ago. It used up four balls of fishing line, broke loose and took off over the bay toward Santa Cruz. Quite a kite.

According to the Pine Cone, "Carmel's first kite festival was a huge success. Despite a few stiff necks and a few disappointed hearts when the judges ruled several kites out, practically every one who made up the large gathering went home enthused over the tournament."

Winners included Teddy Marble, who won first prize for the highest flying kite; Harry Turner, Billy Turner and Joe De Amaral, who won second prize in this group with a kite they had made together; Don Staniford, Herschal Haines and Denny Cooper, who tied for third prize; Charlotte and Jean May won first prize for the most attractive kite, with Barry Flanders taking second and Dick Tevis third in that group. Jerry Neikirk had the most unusual looking kite and Kevin Wallace the best made.

That first festival set the pattern for following years, though later, rules were changed so that younger entrants were judged separately, giving a fair basis of competition.

There have been some rare and unique kites flown during the fourteen Kite Festivals that have been held in Carmel. Ernestine Renzel made one just two inches high in 1932, using a postage stamp for a tail, and Ernest R. Calley sent one three miles up the following year.

The first fighting kite contests were put on in 1933 and were repeated the next year on an even more ambitious scale. "F. Isadora and G. Gabarra sent up their battlers and to the craning of many necks the contestants dove, climbed, clashed and fluttered under expert handling of the owners until Gabarra's hawk beat down the enemy.

"Next was the Idel Machiles and Leoni Arizala fray, with the latter's U. S. Navy triumphing after moments of combat, and the final bout was between this flier and the Gabarra hawk. Time after time they both came down with a whack but were able to be untangled and go aloft again, until finally the little hawk disabled the Navy and rose triumphant."

Joyce Whitcomb won second prize in the Oddest Kite group that year, with a kite covered with Sunday funny papers. In the prettiest section, Allan Wood, 6th Grade, Sunset, won first prize with a shimmering cellophane flier spangled with stars, and Edgar Leslie, 7th Grade at Sunset, got second with a black and gold Mickey

SEED OF A HURRICANE

*Like a comet in conception,
Like a comet trailed with flame,
You rush
Across my star established skies
Headlong
On the pathway of impetuous desire!*

*You must drive your chariot
More cautiously,
Or crush
The cloud-encrusted pathway
Across my far established skies.*

*You must guide your steeds more lightly
Lest they crush the white encrusted pathway
Across my star established skies.*

*Like a comet in conception,
Like a comet veiled in flame,
Like the seed of a hurricane;
You sweep, with imperfection,
Across my far established skies.*

*Though your steeds must be shod with lightning
And each bears a flaming mane,
They must touch triumphant air
Like the dust of frosty moth wings,
Like the whispers of the harp strings
That vibrate with my name.*

—HELEN NIVENS.

CALIFORNIA EVENING

*Tonight the heavens and the earth are hushed.
The straining ear is tensioned to the whir
Of jade and amber suns in distant space
And scarcely hears the mountain breezes stir.*

*The chaparral grows pungent as we climb
Through rubbled canyons up an oaken hill;
Below, a strand of city lights is flung,
As bright as constellations, and as still.*

—MARCUS Z. LYTLE.

COMPREHENSIVE

*The spring is sung in silver
That few but birds can know,
But to the song of summer

*The mind has certain harmonies
The great alone attend,
But hearts have simple melodies
That all can comprehend.*

Have You Read . . . ?

BY H. S. UPJOHN

Have you read anything recently upon the subject of education? Or about school-life? Certainly not! Why not? Is it because the subject is unimportant? Or uninteresting? Perhaps neither. It may be because no one has written about such matters in a manner to arouse your curiosity, or to stimulate an interest which you would have if properly appealed to. You may doubt this.

Recently the film, Our Vines Have Tender Grapes, was shown in Carmel. In it a minor but important role was played by the local school teacher. She was attractive. She was shown in the school room teaching. She even handled a problem in discipline on the screen and gave her pupils a little lecture on creditable social behavior. And the audience liked it. Two of the other actors were children. Their doings were a large part of the life of the picture. Another disciplinary problem arose in the home. The father punished the little girl. The audience thought him too tough and a bit unjust. But, you say, what has that to do with education? Just this, it is education in process and was made so interesting that you willingly pay to go and see it. You might not mind seeing it a second time.

Next to the home, the school is the most valuable asset of any civilized community. Novels by the thousand have been written about home life. Such novels will be found among the older classics. Such stories are being written, bought, and read today. Novels or stories are rarely written about school life and when written rarely become popular. Writing which is good enough to be called literature is seldom produced on the theme of education.

About fifty years ago the American Book Company published a volume called, The Schoolmaster in Literature. It was made up largely of excerpts but was enriched by competent comments and brief biographies. Examples of the sources are Rousseau's Emile, Pestalozzi's Leonard and Gertrude, Charlotte Brontë's account in Jane Eyre of the Lowood School, Thomas Hughes's Tom Brown books, Irving's Legend of Sleepy Hollow, Eggleston's Hoosier Schoolmaster, and a variety of selections from the novels of Dickens and Thackeray. Most of the excerpts were from English writers and were written from fifty to one hundred years ago. If an attempt were made to re-issue the book and to bring it up to date the editor would have hard hunting to find much new material of a more recent date.

In 1907 E. M. Forster published his story, The Longest Journey. Much of this novel has a background of schools and school life. Yet it is read for its fine style and its human interest. Of these it had enough to encourage a re-issue in 1922. George Meredith used a conflict between a father and his son over the son's education as a major fact in the plot development of The Ordeal of Richard Feverel. Recently James Hilton's Good-bye, Mr. Chips almost attained the popularity of a best seller.

These examples indicate that there is nothing inherently wrong with the use of schools and education as possible literary material. Why is this so rarely done?

It seems reasonable to suppose that the reader of books, especially of books well enough written to rank as literature, buys them or borrows them at the library because they appeal to his interest. Book stores and libraries would call upon authors and publishers if a demand were evident which was not being satisfied. Such a demand for books about education, at home, in the school, in the experiences of life outside evidently has as yet not been strong. Demands for books about sex, mystery, crime, murder, violence, blood, sordid living, poverty, graft, exploitation, adultery, and in a lesser degree about politics, medicine, law, engineering, sea-life, gold rushes, the wild West and even religion seems to be steady. For education, very little.

In The Longest Journey Mr. Forster has often

William Ingram Returns

William G. Ingram, BM2/c, son of Mr. and Mrs. William N. Ingram, returned home to Carmel last week after three and a half years in the navy. Docking recently at San Francisco on the USS Mobile, he is getting ready to start his apprenticeship in the plastering trade under his father, a plastering contractor. That will be quite a contrast to his life of the past year which kept him busy moving cargo in the Carolines and the Marianas. His last job out there was the moving of natives, their personal belongings and livestock back to Ulithi in the Carolines. Then the boys could start counting the days when real food would be in front of them again. His LST was without a regular cook, and so the meals had become volunteer affairs, the boys pooling their limited knowledge of cooking. A mechanic baked their best bread, but his turn came up only once a month. In the meantime, bread loaves were pretty solid affairs, Ingram said, admitting that he would have hated to drop on his foot any loaves he baked. Except for losing weight, though, he and the other boys got through the cooking experiment without too much difficulty. Before his sea duty, he had been stationed at the Oakland Air Base and the Livermore Naval Air Station. Born twenty-two years ago in Pacific Grove, Ingram went to San Carlos parochial school and was graduated from Monterey High School.

Entertain Jean Morlan

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McPherson of Carmel Woods gave a farewell dinner party for Miss Jean Morlan last Thursday evening. Miss Morlan is leaving Carmel High School to enter Brown School for Girls in Glendora. Guests included Mrs. R. A. Morlan, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cope, and Ted Hall of Carmel.

Episcopalians Meet

Col. J. I. Sloat, Mrs. V. P. Millis, and the Rev. C. J. Hulsewe attended the ninety-sixth annual convention of the Episcopal Diocese of California in San Francisco this week. Mrs. Hulsewe, Mrs. C. O. Fisher, Mrs. B. B. Thomas, and Mrs. B. J. Bacon attended the annual convention of the Woman's Auxiliary, also held at Grace Cathedral, San Francisco. Reports of the two meetings will be presented at the next monthly luncheon sponsored by the All Saints' Woman's Auxiliary on Wednesday, February 6.

Col. Edward Kraus on Leave

Colonel Edward Kraus has been spending his overseas leave at home on Ridgewood Road with his wife and twenty-month old baby. Returned recently from the convalescent hospital at Campo, California, he is awaiting a new assignment upon termination of his leave, February 9. His hospital stay resulted from tropical fever, which he contracted while winning five battle stars in Borneo, New Britain, New Guinea, and the Philippines.

Marian Dowgiallo Engaged

Two dozen red roses, wired from Corpus Christie, Texas, revealed the engagement Saturday afternoon of Marian L. Dowgiallo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Dowgiallo, Carmel, to S1/c Leslie Dunn, El Paso, Texas. Arriving during a tea at the Dowgiallo home for close family friends, the flowers gave away the secret which was not to be broken until later that afternoon. Floral effects predominated. Dining room curtains were drawn by heathers, and a heather bouquet centered the table. Calla lilies held a prominent position on the mantle and beside the fireplace, later giving way to the red roses. A large cake, bearing a red heart with the names Marian and Leslie, was a feature of the tea. Mrs. Alice M. Rood of Seattle, grandmother of the bride-to-be, presided, and Beverly, sister of Miss Dowgiallo, assisted.

The prospective groom is a native of El Paso, Texas, and is at present undergoing final phases of naval training preparatory to receiving his commission. Enlisting upon completion of high school, he underwent three and a half years of V-12 training at Colorado State College and then was sent to Del Monte. It was while there that he met Miss Dowgiallo. The bride-to-be attended Carmel and Riverside schools. She is now employed at the Ninth Service Command Laboratory in Monterey. No date has been set for the marriage, but it will be sometime this summer on the Peninsula.

Guests at the tea included Mrs. Arthur Templeman, Mrs. Susan Conroy, Mrs. Clara Stevens, Mrs. Clarence Lamb, Mrs. Mildred Riker, Mrs. Roy Barnes, Mrs. A. C. Ackerman, Mrs. Arthur Strasburger, Mrs. Perry Reel, Mrs. Peggy Atkinhead, Mrs. R. F. Johnson, Miss Lillis Harris, Miss Anne Barrows, Miss Kay Rodgers, Miss Marilyn Strasburger, Miss Margaret Ackerman, Miss Sally Setchel, and Miss Joy Melrose.

Approximately sixty persons attended the candle-light party Saturday night at the Dowgiallo home, honoring the bride-to-be.

Bridge Section Meets

The committee in charge of the bridge section of the Carmel Woman's Club greeted a large group of members Monday afternoon and served a well-planned tea after the game. Hostesses were Mrs. Charles La Prolle, chairman, Mrs. John Montgomery, Mrs. Nelle Leyman, and Mrs. Helen Palmtag. Mrs. Leyman and Mrs. Palmtag were at the tea table which featured three beautiful anthurium in different colors. Calla lilies, Scotch heather, and yellow acacia were other flowers used in decoration.

Many individual parties are being given in connection with the program planned by the bridge section chairman, Mrs. Annie Vaughn. Any member of the club wishing to be listed as a substitute may call Mrs. Vaughn at Carmel 380.

Bill Fassett With Mission Ranch

William Fassett became public relations director for the Mission Ranch Club this week. He and his wife, the granddaughter of Frank Powers, Carmel pioneer, have been frequent visitors to the Peninsula for many years, and are now permanent residents. Mr. Fassett formerly did public relations work in San Francisco.

Postelwaites to Live Here

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Postelwaite of Oakland, both familiar vacationists on the Peninsula before their marriage last Fall, now plan to make their permanent home in Carmel. Mr. Postelwaite is here to buy a house before his wife comes down in another two weeks. The former Edith Hibberd, she is music librarian in Oakland and will leave for Carmel upon completion of her work. Mr. Postelwaite, staying at Mrs. Grace Howden's home, plans to enter business here.

Sunday School Class Meets

Mrs. Bruce Bacon's Sunday school class of All Saints' Church held its monthly meeting last week at the home of Susan Ehman, daughter of Mrs. John Ehman. Officers were elected as follows: Pat Collins, president; Nancy Bacon, vice president; and Martha Kurtz, secretary. Other members present were Susan Ehman, Sibyl Koehner, Mary Louise McGar, and Susan Pendelton. Next month's meeting will be at Mrs. Bacon's home.

JOHN DUNN—SOCIAL EDITOR

Mrs. Wood to Leave Feb. 8.

After nine years of service in Carmel schools, the past four as principal of Sunset, Mrs. Helen Cowan Wood will leave Carmel next week for a new position with the Lassen County schools. During her stay here, she touched almost every phase of the community's educational system, serving as a high school counselor, elementary supervisor, elementary teacher, registrar, secretary to the board, and principal. Scheduled to finish here February 8, she will enter her new position almost immediately. She is to live at Susanyville and will serve as a county supervisor of schools there, in Westwood and Herlong, giving instructional assistance.

Mrs. Wood's many friends in the local school system have been busy entertaining her with farewell parties. Last Saturday afternoon at the Monterey Peninsula Country Club she was honored at a luncheon attended by the faculty and staff of custodians from Sunset School. With the weather 100 percent perfect, the afternoon became a vivid picture. Beautiful white Spring flowers provided the decorative theme, and colorful scenes of the Peninsula served as place cards. Mrs. Wood, wearing a corsage of gardenias, received as her parting gift from the faculty, a complete place setting of silver in her pattern, Chantilly. Mrs. Leo Harris and Mrs. Karl S. Geiselhart were special guests. After the luncheon bridge was played.

A surprise handkerchief shower for Mrs. Wood was given by Mrs. Ferdinand Ruth at her home Tuesday night. Approximately twenty persons attended. Plans are being completed for the farewell tea to be given by the Carmel High School faculty next Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock in the high school library. The Sunset faculty has been invited.

Students at Sunset School said their goodbye to Mrs. Wood with an old-fashioned bouquet of flowers from Carmel gardens, when she attended her last student body meeting this week.

Red Cross Appointments

Mrs. James Doud, newly elected chairman of Carmel Chapter, American Red Cross, announces appointment of chapter officers as follows: Mrs. Sidney Fish, vice chairman, Mr. Hurd Comstock, secretary, Miss Hope Hasty, treasurer. The nominating committee chairman for the year will be Mrs.

Sidney Trevett, while chairman of the finance committee will be Harold Nielsen. The housing committee will be headed by Mrs. Fred Godwin.

Chairmen of chapter working units are as follows: production, Mrs. Buntie B. Thomas; Gray Ladies, Mrs. Marcus Gregory; nurses aides, Mrs. Paul Low; public information, Mrs. George Stuart; Junior Red Cross, Mrs. Francis Foraker; camp and hospital, Mrs. Rush Wallace; ambulance, Fred Mylar; disaster preparedness and relief, Ernest Morehouse.

Mrs. Ruth Honored at Shower

Members of the Knit Wits, a group which meets regularly for knitting and social sessions, honored a fellow member, Mrs. Ferdinand Ruth, at a miscellaneous baby shower recently. Given by Mrs. Anna Kohner at her home, the shower was a colorful affair, with pink and blue predominating. Gifts for the former Sunset School teacher were presented in a pink and blue doll buggy.

Guests included Miss Harriett Norman, Miss Sue Henderson, Miss Winifred Regier, Miss Constance McLaughlin, Miss Lela Becker, Miss Jeanne Staffebach, Miss Joyce Uzzell, Miss Dorothy Geiselhart, Miss Blanche Walsh, Mrs. Marjorie McCausland, Mrs. Jean Duygon, Mrs. Edna Lockwood, Mrs. Kay Briggs, Mrs. Ann Uzzell, Mrs. Helen Wood, Mrs. Dorothy Skelly, Mrs. Robert Doerr, Mrs. Frances Johnson, and Mrs. Mabel Hart.

Lt. Carman Here

Lt. Robert M. Carman spent the first part of his leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Carman, at Rancho San Carlos in Carmel Valley, and will be in Tacoma with his wife for the rest of his leave. Lt. Carman lived in Carmel with his mother, and did much of the remodeling of Carman Cottage on Lincoln between Tenth and Eleventh Streets in 1937-38. He has been stationed on Attu, and upon return from his leave, will be at Two Rock Ranch Station, Petaluma, awaiting further orders. He had eight years in the U.S. Army, while his father retired in August, 1945, after thirty-nine years in the U. S. Navy.

Charles De Vault to Speak

The speaker at the general meeting of the Carmel Woman's Club next Monday, at 2 p.m. will be Charles L. De Vault. Now retired and a resident of Carmel, Mr. De Vault has had a distinguished career as diplomat, scholar, international lawyer and has an established reputation as a platform and radio speaker. His twenty-two years of foreign service, under five U. S. presidents and seven secretaries of state, included posts as attaché and vice-consul to Paris, vice-consul to London and consul to Japan, Paris and Mexico City. With this background of intimate knowledge of foreign countries, Mr. De Vault can speak with authority on the subject, America's Outlook Now.

Wayfarer Auxiliary

Korea and its customs and conditions of life while under Japanese domination is the subject before the Women's Auxiliary of the Church of the Wayfarer on Tuesday afternoon, February 5, in the social room of the church. Miss Margaret Niesley, who spent three years as a teacher in that country, will be the speaker. Miss Niesley is now on the faculty of Salinas High School. Music will be furnished by Mrs. Alta Dale, cello soloist, who teaches music in Carmel High School. The program will begin around 1:45.

Miss Niesley's talk on Korea will be divided into three sections, her experiences there, the spread of Christianity in the land, and Korea under Japanese domination. She spent three years in Korea with the high school department of foreign schools in Pyengyang, Korea. Her vacations were spent travelling in Korea, Japan, and North China.

Members of the auxiliary will meet at 10:30 to make bandages for the leper work, and others will join them in a box lunch at 12:30. The short business meeting will begin at 1:30. Mrs. Fenton Grigsby is president of the auxiliary, and Mrs. Grace Howden is program chairman.

The Misses Imig Visit Carmel

Katharine Imig and Joan Imig of San Francisco have been paying a visit to Carmel this week and will return to the Bay Area soon.

Demo Women Change Meeting

Instead of meeting at the home of Mrs. Leffingwell as previously planned, the Carmel Women's Democratic Club will meet at Mrs. Paul Low's, Ridgewood and Santa Lucia, this afternoon at 2:30. The subject for discussion is Employment Brought Up to Date. Mrs. J. M. Rigdon, Mrs. Paul Low, and Miss Angles Shand will be the speakers. Anyone needing transportation should call 1682-R.

St. Anne's Altar Guild Meets

St. Anne's Altar Guild met Friday morning for a corporate communion service followed by a business meeting and social hour in the Parish House. Refreshments were served by the Rev. and Mrs. C. J. Hulsewe. This group is made up of fifteen active members and many associate members. Officers for the coming year are Mrs. C. J. Hulsewe, chairman; Mrs. W. B. Williams, treasurer; Mrs. J. F. Collins, secretary. The next meeting in May is to be at the home of Mrs. G. M. Burton.

Choir Mothers Gather

The Choir Mothers' Association of All Saints' Church held its quarterly luncheon meeting at the home of Mrs. Ernest Leffingwell last Wednesday. Luncheon was prepared by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. P. K. Bryant. Mrs. Leffingwell is to be chairman for the coming year, and Mrs. E. H. Ewig is secretary-treasurer. Mrs. W. S. Le Sor expressed the appreciation of the mothers to Reverend Hulsewe for the recreation and outings he gives to this group of boys, besides the training in church leadership. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Carl Rohr in May.

Connoisseurs of fine glassware will be fascinated with a green Bohemian overlay vase, rare and lovely of its kind, hidden away at MERLE'S TREASURE CHEST. Of an exquisite shape, this antique glassware with its pattern of finely cut leaves against the darker background of green glass is truly a collector's item. Merle's also has some pieces of the well-known Tiffany glass—one, a dark green wine-bottle, another a miniature compote for bonbons, or, in our modern days, an ash-tray. Tiffany made his glass by a secret formula which results in a peculiar shimmer of rainbow colors over the surface of the glass... like shimmering taffeta or the prismatic tints of oil on a pool of water.

The discovery of the week at THE COUNTRY SHOP is something you haven't been able to get for a long time called packables. Non-crushable, they'll fit into any suit-case, wonderful for traveling or for gals who want to cut down on the ironing problem. In sophisticated spring shades of rose, navy, brown, blue and lime. And speaking of Spring, it's really arrived in the way of cottons, seersuckers, crepes, chambrays and ginghams—in a gala array of colors, ranging from pastel to plaids. They even have some intriguing pin-stripe two piece seer-sucker suits, not to mention items in the sport line, such as sun-back dresses with bolero tops, and prints for beach-wear in bra, skirt and jacket combinations.

Teen-age girls can find those sweater-sets they've been longing for over at the COLLEGIATE DRESS SHOP in Monterey. In pastel shades, 100% wool, they're exactly the thing to wear to school, and can be bought separately or together. Mrs. Brownley also has some white pleated skirts, ideal for spring and gala occasions. And another exciting item for the teenage (or any age energetic enough to push a bike) is pedal-pushers. Gay plaids, smart shades of brown, navy, green and black, they're the answer to the question of style and comfort rolled up in one.

A very tricky innovation which a lot of gals are going to be glad to hear about is "Crowning Glory"—a new product for giving yourself your own permanent wave! It takes about 4 hours, can be done at home and costs so much less than what you get at the beauty parlor, that it's a temptation to try. Guaranteed to give a soft, natural-looking wave, complete instructions are included with the set... You find it at STANFORD'S DRUG STORE.

And here's news for beef-eaters! Mr. Dienelt, impresario of the MISSION RANCH, has just put over a wonderful deal in the way of a special purchase in Kansas City corn-fed beef. Starting today at the Ranch, they're going to cut it into luscious red-blooded New York cuts, filet mignons and Chef's Club Steaks... all for the usual price on the regular dinner, according to OPA ceiling. At this rate, it's the greatest bargain on the Peninsula, what with the meat-shortage still going on, and it's going to be featured regularly from now on because Bert Dienelt has his Kansas steers under contract! Rarin' to go!

There's a revolution in fountain-pens and in case you haven't heard of it, it's called the Reynolds International Pen. And this is actually a revolution, because the darned thing doesn't have to be refilled for two years, writes under water, on cloth, makes impressions through 8 sheets of carbon, has a ball point instead of a sharp one, and can be used for heavy, medium or the most delicate of writing just by varying the pressure! Reynolds guarantees this pen, so there's no joke about it, and the ink you use is Satisflo, which doesn't blot or get gummed up in the pen, and doesn't have to be changed for two whole years. Sounds incredible but it's really true. And if you don't believe it, take a run down to FORTIER'S DRUG STORE for a look at this new-fangled contraption.

Art Withey of the THIEVE'S MARKET, that rare second-hand store where you find quality and color while browsing amidst dusty archives, is very pleased this week with the purchase of a really unique Venetian bedroom set—it has delicately curved legs, is done in a subtle pattern of brown roses against the antique background of pale green, and includes twin beds, a dresser and a perfectly charming bed-side stand. The beds are the spool type, and would lend marvelous atmosphere to the right bedroom. And of course there are lots of other items, such as antique china of every shape and description.

But the scoop of the week is definitely in girdles! Everyone who has suffered from war-shortages (and who hasn't) will be overjoyed to find "the real thing" again. Warner's Le Gant form-fitting girdles have a vertical stretch back (don't ride up), come in a complete range of sizes in satin and broadcloth, with actual latex, and are carried at PUTNAM & RAGGETT. PUTNAM & RAGGETT (successor to Meagher's, and you've probably noticed the delightful new window with its chartreuse screens) also carry Warner's Alphabet Bras, in ABC sizes designed to fit every figure. They're in tea-rose and white.

Billie Burke is pretty down-at-the-mouth this week, what with rockets going off to the moon, local garbage disputes and what-not, when all he's got to peddle is hardware. Just common ordinary paints, nails, dish-mops and what he can get in the way of house-ware. All very unromantic, mundane stuff, but of course people need them from time to time, and Mr. Burke of CARMEL HARDWARE solemnly warns the public that he will NOT answer "any foolish questions about rockets to the Moon." He doesn't have any, or any Nylons either. But if it's dish-mops you want, that's a horse of a different color.

Plan New Veterans' Group

Plans for establishment of a Peninsula chapter of the American Veterans Committee are now under consideration. Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Schneider of Monterey, members of the committee, announced this week that they desire to organize a local chapter and asked that any interested veterans call them at Monterey 5287. The organization's membership includes Col. Carlson, Bill Matldin, Capt. Harold Stassen and thousands of just plain GIs and ex-GIs.

The hot sulphur springs of Paso Robles were used by Digger Indians long before the Spaniards came to California.

Pine Needles...

Martin-Ruster Marriage

A group of intimate friends drank champagne to Katie and John Wednesday afternoon at five o'clock, following a civil ceremony in Judge George P. Ross' chambers, where Katie Martin became Mrs. John Ruster. John, who has battle stars for New Guinea and the Philippines, and a bronze star for meritorious achievement in the Philippines with General Krueger's Sixth Army, received his discharge Monday from Camp Beale. Two weeks earlier he was in Japan.

Katie came to Carmel in 1941 and soon became associated with the artistic and theatrical life of the community, participating in local dramatic productions, and in the social activities of the gallery group. Until her marriage, she was a member of the advertising staff of The Pine Cone, and was advertising manager for the Cymbal before it was consolidated with The Pine Cone.

She and John became engaged when he was stationed at Ft. Ord.

The newlyweds will honeymoon here until the middle of March, when they will go to New York to make their home, taking Yippee with them, but not Chloe (does anyone want a Persian kitten?) Before they leave for the East they plan a visit to Pasadena with Mrs. Ruster's parents, Royden Vosburg and Mrs. Elizabeth Vosburg. There are also plans for trips to San Francisco to see the plays and the ballet.

Spends Leave in Carmel

Kenneth Otrich, seaman first class, joined his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otrich, for a week end in Carmel. The Otrichs, whose home is in Oakland, but who spend most of their week ends at their Carmel cottage, are leaving for a junket East Saturday, which is a business trip primarily, but will be extended and enlarged to include stops over in New Orleans, Washington, D. C., and Boston. Returning home by the northern route, they will stop off for a visit with their daughter, Mrs. Reginald Collins, in Seattle.

Capt. Tom Hudson Here

Capt. Thomas Hudson and his wife (nee Jane Taylor) were here for a few days at the old homestead at Pt. Lobos, visiting Mrs. Tom Riley and family. Tom, the son of Captain L. J. Hudson, U. S. Navy, was in France during the war with the 101st Airborne Division; was wounded at Mimien, Holland, during a parachute landing prior to D-Day, and is now on terminal leave, following his recent discharge at Ft. Benning, Georgia.

They spent Christmas with Tom's parents in Newfoundland, where Captain Hudson, Sr., is in command of the U. S. Navy Base, and the young couple are now en route to Berkeley, where they hope to find housing so as to attend U.C. next semester.

Down from San Francisco

Richard and Agnes (Fraser) Gump came down from San Francisco over the week-end for a visit with Aggie's mother, Mrs. Malcolm Fraser. Richard owns the Discovery Shop on Dolores Street.

General Edgerton Pays Visit

Major General G. E. Edgerton, U. S. Army, Director of Materiel with the Army Service Forces, flew out from Washington, D. C., last week for an overnight visit with his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Bruce Edgerton, who has purchased a home in the Carmel Woods. Mrs. Edgerton expects her husband, 1st Lt. Bruce Edgerton, U.S.A., to return to the States shortly from Frankfurt, Germany, where he is stationed with USSET, FIAT Division.

Mildred Tadlock Married

Mildred Tadlock, formerly of Carmel, was married Monday afternoon in St. Patrick's Church, Watsonville, to Peter V. Meidus of Leechburg, Pa. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Billie Tadlock. She went to Monterey and Carmel High Schools and has been living in Watsonville in recent years. The couple will honeymoon in California and make their home in Pennsylvania. Mr. Meidus was recently discharged from service.

Capt. Sartori on Leave

Captain Gerard Sartori arrived here Monday for a thirty-day leave with his wife and young son, Peter. He has spent the past year in the China, Burma, India theatre with the Army Air Forces Communications Service, doing personnel work, headquarters at Chubia, India. While in Carmel, he is staying with his brother-in-law and sister, Maj. and Mrs. Alice M. Osborne.

A number of Carmel women attended the exhibit of old Peninsula photographs during the recent open-house of the Pacific Grove Woman's Club and Junipero Parlor No. 141, Native Daughters of the Golden West. Held at the Woman's Club house, the program featured a short talk by Mrs. Ann Fisher, discussing origin of photographic plates. Mrs. R. H. Merritt, president of the Pacific Grove Woman's Club, and Mrs. Marjorie Banta Colburn, president of Junipero Parlor, N. D. G. W., made welcoming speeches. Mrs. Horace Cochran was general chairman. Mrs. Elmarie Dyke presented the exhibit's pictures to the Pacific Grove and Monterey libraries.

of his characters remark, "It is in what we value, not in what we have, that the test of us resides." If we use our taste for types of literature as an indicator, it seems obvious that the mental values which most of us prize lie in effects, not causes. What men do, how they behave, their actions are the major sources of interest. Why they so behave is a far less appealing concern. In fact, as usually presented it is plainly dull. Now, if education is the sum of the influences which shape one's pattern of behavior, then the reasons why will be found to have much to do with education. Moreover, the control and change of behavior is an educational process. Is the reason for its dullness to be found in the writer's ineptitude or in the reader's immaturity? The great Russian novelists, Dostoevsky, Tolstoy, Turgenyev, Gorky, and Gogol found plenty of exciting material and ways of writing about it and a world wide audience. Many recent writers in English are experimenting in the field of the so-called psychological novel.

If war disappears from the world scene; if a better distribution of wealth brings a lowering of marital tensions; if better political planning reduces incitements to crime; when more leisure and better health prevail, it is safe to predict that increasing interest will be shown in those processes of growth with which the home and the school are so much concerned. Books will then be written and read in greater numbers which concern themselves with this area of human activity now entered but infrequently, except under compulsion.

In the meantime, those who seek shall find. There are to be had a few works of literature majoring in education or school life which are not only worth while but to the mature mind are a privilege and pleasure to read.

A brief reading list: E. M. Forster, The Longest Journey; James Hilton, Good-bye Mr. Chips; Bruce Marshall, A Prayer for the Living; Geo. MacDonald, Malcolm (considerable Scotch dialect); H. G. Wells, Joan and Peter, Experiment in Autobiography; Rudyard Kipling, Stalky & Co.; G. C. Beresford, School Days with Kipling; Tolstoy, Yasnaya Polyana School; Wm. James, Talks to Teachers; John Dewey, The School and Society; Jacques Barzun, The Teacher in America.

Mouse kite. Ted Marble, 8th grade at Sunset won the Distance and Height contests with a feather-weight tailless kite flown on a fine silk cord.

There is always a spirit of high adventure about the Annual Kite Festival which has nothing much to do with who wins what, however. It's just a darn good excuse for everybody to get out in the Spring sunshine and fly kites.

Club Auctions Held For March Of Dimes

Carmel dimes have gotten into the full swing of the nationwide march to stamp out infantile paralysis and aid polio-stricken children, Postmaster Ernest Bixler, local March of Dimes chairman, said today. Contributions thus far received include $44 from children at Sunset School and many other gifts coming daily in the mail. Containers in most stores are getting filled, and movie patrons have shown their generosity on three days this week. When the contributions are totalled next week, they are expected to speak well for Carmel, the chairman stressed.

Auctions at two local clubs added $27 to the fund. Topping the foolery at the weekly American Legion Club dinner, Monday night was the forced appropriation of ties worn by Perry Reel and Cliff Jones, the subsequent auctioning of which netted $20 for the March of Dimes. Rotarians were Legion guests at the dinner which served also as a going-away affair for Mr. Reel, who has been named to manage J. C. Penney's Hollywood store.

The other auction was by the Carmel Lions at their Tuesday night meeting. The prize for this week's session, a bottle of wine, went on the auction block to add $7 to the March of Dimes.

pletely blocked the back door with potted plants and shrubs rendering the exit useless and placing defendant (Pon) in great danger in the event of fire; that plaintiff (Nilssen) has broken the lock of defendant's home and entered his house without consent and has painted the same; that the plaintiff has taken away the personal property of the defendant to the value of fifty dollars and that plaintiff has daily annoyed the defendant, threatened him and called him opprobrious names to the great physical and mental suffering of the defendant."

So Pon wants judgment of $299 and costs.

Pon claims that the house which he has lived in for twenty years was given to him by the Hitchcock family. In this he is supported by the surviving member of the family, Joe Hitchcock. Neils Reimers, who bought the property from the Hitchcocks, claims that the house went with the land. Reimers has sold the property to Nilssen, and for the past six months Reimers and Nilssen have been trying to evict Pon from the the house he maintains is his own.

Date for the hearing has not yet been set. Charles McHarry is representing Nilssen.

BABY CONFERENCE

Dr. Virginia Cobb, pediatrician, will conduct the regular monthly clinic of the Carmel Well Baby Conference next Thursday in the Church of the Wayfarer. Dr. Cobb succeeds Dr. John MacWillie who conducted the clinic during the past year.

State Control For Cutting Redwoods

important for this Coastal area and for the Salinas Valley. There are a number of canyons with redwoods which are beginning to be cut again.

"I would like to know if the Forestry service has any jurisdiction over the forests of this county.

"One instance of cutting, 15 miles south of Carmel, is the Palo Colorado Canyon. A man recently bought 160 acres, partially timbered with redwood. He has already cut 100,000 ft. and plans to cut 3,000,000 ft. of redwood. This is cutting the backbone of the forest. Two others are cutting in this same canyon. One is awaiting Spring to start cutting more heavily on the next canyon, Garrapata Canyon. Can we have some check upon this cutting?"

In a letter received by Calley, Tuesday, Mr. Hannum said:

"In reply to your letter of January 24th I am pleased to note your interest in the subject matter evidenced by your notation that Monterey County is not included in the redwood district. This oversight has been noted and measures will be initiated to have Monterey County included. No means are presently available to control cutting in the Palo Colorado Canyon or Garrapata Canyon. After inclusion of Monterey County, cutting will be controlled under the forest practices established by the Forest Practice Committee, which will have as its objective the continuous production of timber."

Public Meeting On Mission Ranch

by the County Planning Commission on the heated protest of the residents of the area. Carmel Unincorporated went on record at its organization meeting last October as being opposed to rezoning of the Mission Ranch property.

Mahar is president of Carmel Unincorporated; Jackson heads the Advisory Committee to the Monterey County Planning Commission. Other members of the Advisory Committee are: Robt. O'Brien, Lydia Weld, Henry Dickinson, G. H. Burnett, and C. L. Dean.

The Planning Commission has set the date for the public hearing on Stanley's rezoning petition for February 25, in Salinas.

Kenneth Goold Sells Cleaning Business

Kenneth C. Goold, owner of the Carmel Cleaners, announced this week the sale of his business to James Robert Martin, John W. Martin, Jr., and T. E. Nelson, Jr., of Salinas. As of February 11, the cleaning firm will be under Nelson and Martin management, although Goold will remain until March 1.

A native of Carmel, Goold established the Carmel Cleaners in 1928 on Dolores Street where it has remained to the present time. His immediate plans call only for rest. After March 1 he expects to head for the desert, and after a few weeks there, he will start thinking of work again, he says. He will continue to make his home in Carmel.

900 Sign Up For John; Council To Meet Wed.

to convince, if they want to keep John, and at the present moment it looks as if the council will take quite a bit of convincing, judging by the comment of one member, who said yesterday,

"Petitions don't mean a thing. You could go down Ocean Avenue with a petition that all cats in Carmel should be black, and get everybody in town to sign it."

So it looks as if the people who want to keep John Roscelli on the job will have to appear in person at the City Council meeting next Wednesday night, February 6, 7:45 o'clock, to convince the council that when they signed up for John Roscelli they weren't just trying out the point of a nice sharp pencil—they meant it. —Wilma Cook.

JIM KELSEY HOME

Receiving his discharge today at Camp Shoemaker, Jimmy Kelsey, coxswain, is on his way home after three years in the Navy, thirty months overseas. He's going to help his father, Ivan Kelsey, painting contractor, "provided it doesn't interfere with our hunting and fishing." As his father has been bringing home the limit out of the Salinas river regularly, he can readily understand and agree to Jimmy's stipulation.
